

YOUNG GIRL AND ESCORT MISSING

Mystery About the Absence of Miss "Dimple" Lawrence and G. T. Foster.

WENT DRIVING TOGETHER.

Father of Young Woman Believes It Is All a Lark and No Harm Has Come to Daughter.

The strange simultaneous disappearance of Clarence T. Foster a young married man, and Miss "Dimple" Lawrence from Good Ground, L. I., where both had been living for the summer, is coupled with mystery.

Miss Lawrence is the pretty daughter of John S. Lawrence, a real estate man at No. 149 Broadway, and who resides in Brooklyn.

Clarence T. Foster is a member of several Long Island country clubs and was married to a young New York woman a few months ago. He is reputed to be wealthy.

Neither Mr. Foster nor Miss Lawrence has been seen by near relatives since last Monday evening. Mr. Foster drove that evening to the Ocean View Hotel at West Thana, where the young woman was stopping with her parents. Mr. Foster and Miss Lawrence chatted pleasantly for a few minutes, and when he suggested that she go driving with him she accepted the invitation. They later appeared at the Hampton Pines Club, where they were joined by Mr. Eugene Disbrow, a mutual friend.

Died at the Club. The trio dined at the club, and when Miss Lawrence and Mr. Foster drove away from Mr. Foster's trap they said they would return at once to the hotel. That was the last seen of the couple by their relatives.

The next morning a small rowboat which Miss Lawrence was accustomed to use was missing from its moorings. Later it was found adrift and one of the oars was broken. This gave rise to the fear that both Mr. Foster and Miss Lawrence had been drowned while rowing. When further search was made it was learned that Mr. Foster's trap in which he and Miss Lawrence had been driving was found in the morning. John S. Lawrence, the father of Miss Lawrence, will not believe that any harm has befallen his daughter. He so states emphatically.

"Why, it is all a lark," he said to-day to an Evening World reporter. "My impression of the whole affair is that my daughter is stopping somewhere with friends, probably at Riverhead, where she has several acquaintances. There can be nothing in the coincidence disappearance of my daughter and Mr. Foster, whom I know very well and know also to be a gentleman."

"Why, look at this desk," exclaimed Mr. Lawrence, indicating the one at which he sat. "There isn't any letter or telegram there from Good Ground, is there? If anything happened don't you suppose there would be several communications from my wife and relatives regarding my daughter's disappearance, as her going away has been called? No, not there can be nothing in that story. I haven't been at Good Ground for several days, and if my daughter went away Monday I would have been apprised of it by this time, but I haven't received one word from my wife—not one word."

"I saw the account to-day in the newspapers, and I at once wrote to my wife. It's all a lark, that is my impression."

Somewhere with Friends.

"Young folks, you know, have many privileges these days, and it may be that my daughter is somewhere with friends, as I stated before. If the whole matter is sifted down it will be found, I dare say, that gossip in the neighborhood is responsible for this whole story, and everything will be found all right in the end. Of course, I am worried, and will be worried until I get the straight story. If there is any story in it at all. That is all I know about it."

Electrical Society Election.

At the annual meeting of the New York Electrical Society last evening the following officers were elected: President, Dr. Samuel Sheldon; Vice-President, H. A. Lardner; George H. Condit; H. V. A. O'Connell; W. I. Donahoe; Howard D. Betts and W. S. Barstow; Secretary, George H. Guy; treasurer, Henry A. Sinclair.

How the Hon. Michael Herbert Became British Ambassador to Washington through His American Wife.

NEXT SUNDAY'S WORLD.

WOMAN OF FIFTY LEAVES HUSBAND AND SIX CHILDREN.

Mrs. Alexander Struthers, of Cornwall, Departs from Her Home.

How many women have gone through the experience which drove Mrs. Alexander Struthers, a woman past fifty, to forsake her comfortable home, her husband, her six grown children and go out, a stranger, utterly alone and friendless, to battle against the world?

For three weeks the woman has been missing from her home at Cornwall, N. Y. The police of this city have been asked to search for her, and the Rev. Lee M. Beattie, superintendent of the Madison Square Church House, which is run by Dr. Parkhurst's congregation, has enlisted the aid of many charitable organizations in the endeavor to restore the woman to her family. Mr. Beattie preaches in the Presbyterian Church at Cornwall and Mrs. Struthers and all the members of her family were devout members of his flock.

"Mrs. Struthers was a devout woman and a devoted mother," said Rev. Mr. Beattie to-day, in telling The Evening World of her strange disappearance. "She was one of those women who give their lives up so unreservedly to their families that they become as unworshiped as a cloistered nun."

Led a Devoted Life. "For many years she made her home at Cornwall, and yet the station agent could not remember ever having seen her. She had few friends, indulged in no pleasures. Her whole life was wrapped up in her home duties. From morning to night she toiled about her house. Her children had grown up. All were at work in the carpet factory at Cornwall, and the time had just come when she would have been able to enjoy a little comfort, when she suddenly went away."

ONE GIRL GOT ALL HONORS IN THIS GRADUATING CLASS.

She Was Salutatorian, Valedictorian, Historian and Only Prize Winner.

Like the survivor of the "Nancy Brig," was seventeen-year-old Anna Conway, the graduating class of St. Augustine's School, in Union Hill, N. J., last night. She was the valedictorian, salutatorian and class historian, likewise the recipient of the only diploma, the only medal of honor, the only bouquet, the only applause—she was the star of the proceedings—the whole graduating class.

A crowd that packed the school hall to the doors assembled to see pretty Miss Conway stand with radiant face, where the brook and river meet. It was about as representative an audience as has been gathered in Union Hill for many years, containing as it did five Mayors, all the city officials, the Chief of Police, the Board of Education and the principal citizens of the town. The Mayors, who had seats of honor in the front row, were:

Emil Groth, of Union Hill; John Zeller, of Guttenberg; Henry Frank, of Weehawken; John Ous, of West New York; William Bergkamp, of West Hoboken, and James Brannigan, of North Bergen.

It would have been manifestly unjust to ask Miss Conway to furnish all the entertainment, so she was assisted by members of the lower classes in the school, who played and sang. Had it been necessary, however, the graduate could have furnished the musical and vocal trimmings, for she is an accomplished pianist and has a fine soprano voice.

Rev. William P. McLaughlin, pastor of the parish in which the school is located, made a few remarks introducing Miss Conway to the audience. She was greeted with applause so hearty that she became slightly disconcerted, but recovered herself as soon as she began to speak.

First she delivered the salutatory. When she had finished there was a musical number, when she came forth again and delivered the valedictory. Following this she was presented with her diploma, the first ever issued by the school, which was established only five years ago.

After Mr. McLaughlin gave her a diamond-studded gold medal, teachers and pupils in the school gave her books and presents, and dozens of friends in the audience sent bouquets to the stage. It was a great night for Miss Conway.

WIDOWER FOUND HANGING.

Grieved After Death of His Wife and Threatened Suicide.

The body of Lewis Ziegelmuller was found hanging in a room he occupied in the house at No. 141 Glen street to-day. He was last seen alive Wednesday afternoon, and it is believed he killed himself some time Wednesday night. Ziegelmuller's wife died last March. They had lived together a quarter of a century, and the old man drank steadily to drown his sorrow. He had threatened to kill himself several times.

This Week's Sale BLUE SERGE SUITS

We believe it would be difficult to find any suit that would be of such general interest at the present moment as a blue serge—both from the standpoint of style as well as utility. For this reason we have arranged a special offering of blue serge suits for to-day and to-morrow at $12.50.

The serge in these suits is of a finer quality than is ordinarily put into $16 suits, and the making is superior too. The average $16 suit is essentially a "machine-made" garment. These suits are made as carefully as our higher-priced garments—collars, stays, button-holes, all those little details that really go to make the well tailored suit, are carefully done by hand. If you have in mind paying $16 to $20 for a suit—see these first—$12.50.

WM. VOGEL & SON, BROADWAY. HOUSTON ST.

$1.00 Down, $1.00 a Week

Will permit you to purchase one of the greatest clothing bargains ever offered on such reasonable terms. Our regular $15.00 Serge Suits in blue and black, nicely lined and exceptionally well tailored, warranted not to fade, at the very low price of $10.00

We bought a large lot of these suits and the season being very backward has forced us to make this reduction so early. HATS.—Men's Straw and Panama Hats at very low prices. MEN'S SHOES.—Complete assortment of all the various styles. Prices are $2.50, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00.
